i have read this post and if i could i want to suggest you some interesting things or advice this foundation is available in six different shades and is long lasting the people from this region have been taken goji as daily food and they believe it helps them to stay an active life but it's cumbersome to see dozens of patients a day and try to find out what they eat or don't eat and md's really aren't trained in that area i was interested to know how you center yourself and clear your thoughts before writing see contraindications (4.1) and patient counseling information (17.1).