some sensitivity to temperature and pressure is normal following crown or bridge preparation and placement, and you may experience some soreness at the injection site.