this can occur when an iv angiocatheter passes through more than one wall of a vessel or if pressure is not applied to the iv site when the catheter is removed