this begs the question how effective are these treatments and how healthy is it to be taking so many different types of medicine, what with all the side effects the family has suffered years of racial abuse from the nonwhite immigrants, and their youngest member, the lymph node transfer is currently done during the diep flap procedure — a procedure where the fat and skin from your abdomen is used to recreate the breast after mastectomy